

In place of books, or work, or play, Some ladies spend the livelong day In scanning every passer by.
And many a wretched they desire!
They find among the motley crowd That some are gay and some are proud;
That some are short and some are tall, They get their information all
By peeping through the blinds!

You walk the streets (at common pace), You catch the outline of a face.
The face seems strange; again you look, Dear sir! I know you like a book!
She knows the color of your hair,
The very style of clothes you wear, She knows your business, I'll be bound,
And all your friends the country round,
By peeping through the blinds!

She knows the Smith's across the way,
And what they dine on every day;
And thinks that Miss Matilda Jane Is growing very proud and vain.
She knows the Brown's at Number Four,
Just opposite her very door; Folks quite as poor as they can be,
For don't they sit and sew while she Is peeping through the blinds!

Dear ladies, if you don't succeed In gaining knowledge that you need, Then at your window take your seat,
And gaze into the busy street;
Full soon you'll read your neighbors well,
And can their tastes and habits tell,
And know their business, to a T, Much better than your own, you see,
By peeping through the blinds.

A writer in the New York Leader, (St. Slocum) thus expatiates upon the folly and evil of the ridiculous American practice of asking your friends to take drinks with you:

The ridiculous, absurd American custom of "asking" is responsible for seven eighths, and mean it, too—of all the liquor consumed in this country. Abolish that custom to-day, and where there are eight barrels of liquor drank now, there would be only one. We believe this, and believe it can't be gained, and we appeal to any number of first class drinkers for their opinion in the matter. We think they will agree with and corroborate our statement in the matter.

To this custom we owe a "drinking between drinks," which sometimes, with more truth than poetry in his soul, said was the only thing that hurt, or words to that effect. What a ridiculous piece of folly it is to go into a place, if in the mood for liquor, to ask five or six acquaintances up to drink with you, yet it is done all the time, and by parties who perhaps want the money for stockings; but not to do it when your acquaintances are about is to be looked upon as "small potatoes," and few in a hill.

GENIUS AND LABOR.—It's no man's business whether he has genius or not; work he must, whatever he is, but quietly and steadily; and the natural and enforced results of such work will be always the thing that God meant him to do, and will be his best. No agonies nor heart-rendings will enable him to do any better. If he be a great man, they will be great things; if a small man, small things; but always, if thus peacefully done, good and right; always, if restlessness and ambi-tiously done, false hollow and despicable.

It is a fact not generally known that the value and title of a deed may depend entirely upon the proof that it has been regularly recorded, for in case a person should sell the same house, lot, or farm to different parties, giving each a deed for the same, the deed first recorded within six months after its being given according to law, would be the only one that would give title to the property, and the original grantee, not having recorded, his deed would be ejet-ed. So also of a mortgage. It should be recorded immediately after it is given, as it does not become a lien upon property until it has been regularly recorded.

The first day a little boy went to school the teacher asked him if he could spell. 'Yes, Sir.'
'Well how do you spell boy?'
'Oh just as other folks do.'

Sentimental youth. "My dear Maria will you share my lot for life?" Practical girl—"How many acres in your lot, sir?"

Can you tell me how old the devil is? asked an irreverent fellow of a clergyman. "My friend you must keep your own family record," was the reply.

If a mother wishes to see her daughter become a good, happy and rational woman, never let her learn to tempt for domestic occupations, or even suffer them to be deemed secondary.

A fair trial will convince the most skeptical that Wittlesey's Dyspepsia Cure is what it purports to be—a certain remedy for dyspepsia and sick headache.

To turn gray hair to its natural color and beauty, use Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, the best and most reliable preparation science has given us.

Idleness.—The ruin of most men dates from some vacant hour. Occupation is near the armor of the soul.
There is a satirical poem in which the devil is represented as fishing for men, fitting his bait to the tastes and business of his prey; but this idler, he said, gave him no trouble, as he bit the naked hook.

According to the secretary of the interior, our government holds in the southern states for sale nearly 50,000, acres of excellent arable land. This is exclusive of lands seized during the war and since for treason, taxes and abandonment.

John G. Saxe says that human life is safer at midnight in Paris, than in New York or London at midday. But the police is seldom visibly meddlesome and never noisily or brutally demonstrative.
